Pastor's Rundown:

This week is a special week in our calendar! It is the week of Christian Unity. This is a week set aside to reflect on the elements of our Christian faith that unite us as Catholics with other Christians. Often we get so focused on the things that make us different from other Christians that we forget how awesome it is that we share a commitment to Jesus Christ and His good news with so many others. We, as Catholics, are unique in many of our devotional practices and the Sacramental nature of our Liturgical worship. These are great reflections of our faith in Christ that many people might not understand. The one thing that others not of our faith will definitely understand about our faith is our love for Jesus. So maybe this week as we celebrate Christian Unity we can really get psyched about the oneness that we share with others of the Christian faith. We can also reflect on the unity that we share within our own parish here. The great thing about our unity is that we have a common mission that we share but that we all have contrasting differences that we bring. Just like St. Paul said, we have different parts of the body that we bring together to make us whole! Looking around the Church on Sunday mornings it is so great to see all the different people with varying backgrounds and perspectives but how we still come together to sing and pray with one voice to proclaim Christ as our savior. So this week let us pray that we can each bring our own unique gifts, our own unique Catholic practices to build up the Kingdom of God. Thanks to all of you for your part in building up Christian unity here in Seymour and Holy Family Parish! God bless you all.

~Fr. Ragan
